City of Sacramento's Vision Zero Crash Dashboard is Released

The City of Sacramento has released a Crash Dashboard, which provides recent info on when, where and with whom crashes are happening around town. It is a big step towards rebooting efforts for Vision Zero, along with the newly conceived Tactical Action Group, which will allocate six engineers to work on quick-build projects that rapidly design and construct low-cost infrastructure projects. Advocates and the Active Transportation Commission have been pushing the City to get serious about the high number of fatalities and injuries on our roads, and it looks like steps are finally being taken. Given that another cyclist was killed two days ago, this can't come soon enough.

The Streets for People Draft Plan is available for review and comment through April 6, 2025.

You can add comments directly to the Plan. Other people viewing the plan will be able to see your comments and you can see theirs too! You can even give a thumbs-up to comments you like.

To review the plan or learn more about the project, visit Streets for People.

Do you drive on Highway 50? If so, then please chime in and respond to this survey before April 1st. SACOG and Caltrans want to hear about your experiences traveling in the corridor. Find out more here.
